

Danielle Daskalakis

In 2009, Danielle Daskalakis began to make her mark on the world of 1-wall handball.

In that year she was National USHA 1-Wall Doubles Runner-up and Singles Semi-finalist. The next year she was a National 1-Wall Singles Semi-finalist and National 1-Wall Doubles Champion. In 2011 she repeated those two finishes. In 2012 she was, again, a semi-finalist in National 1-Wall, but was runner-up in National Doubles. In 2013 she was champion in National Big Blue Singles, and runner-up in National Doubles (small ball). In 2014 she was National 1-Wall Doubles Champion. Her usual partner was Sandy Ng.

At this writing Danielle seems destined to greatness in the sport of 1-wall handball.
