

Ed Golden

Ed Golden was among the top five 1-wall singles and doubles players of the 1980's and into the early '90's.

Steadiness was his greatest attribute. The man would not beat himself. Quick hands and fleetness afoot enabled him to excel. In 1985 he was USHA National Singles Champion, having defeated two National Hall of Fame players, Joe Durso in the semis, and Albert Apuzzi in the final. In '92, playing with Apuzzi, he was National USHA Doubles Champion. In '89, '93, and '94 Golden was National YMCA Doubles Champ. In addition he was runner-up or semi-finalist in singles and doubles on 15 other occasions.
