

Ed Maisonet

Ed Maisonet was a dominating 1-wall champion during the 1990's and into 2000. He won the USHA National Singles title in 1994, '95, and '98.

In 2001 he was USHA National Singles Runner-up. With Paul Williams as his partner, Maisonet won the USHA National 1-Wall Doubles Championship another three times: 1994, '95, and '99. He was, partnered with Paul, USHA National 1-Wall Doubles Runner-up in 1996 and '97. In addition he was runner-up in World 1-Wall Doubles in 1997 and 2000.

Ed was a complete player, lacking no skill needed by a top flight 1-waller. He served extremely well, had considerable power and was lightning fast. His original nickname, even before he established his prominence as a champion, was "Fast Eddie."
