George Baskin was a big, burly man who excelled in 1-wall doubles. He was National AAU 1-Wall Doubles Champion from 1937-1939 and again in 1949.

A strong singles player as well, he won Metropolitan Singles titles in '37 and '38. In 1934 he was National AAU 1-Wall Singles Runner-up. After his handball career ended George worked security for Brighton Beach Baths, where he had played his best handball as a young man.
